Excerpt from "The Stranded Rider" by Tony Fitzpatrick

"I've never seen Chicago like this before," he said, as we passed a building with boarded-up windows and a "For Rent" sign that looked like it had been there a long time. "It's like a ghost town."

"It is a ghost town," I said. "At least, parts of it are. The Loop is pretty much empty. The Magnificent Mile too. All the tourists are gone."

"I know," he said. "I've been watching the news. It's crazy. I never thought I'd see anything like this in my lifetime."

We drove in silence for a while. The city passed by in a blur of empty streets and closed stores.

"I wonder what's going to happen," he said finally.

"I don't know," I said. "I just hope it doesn't get any worse."

Critical Acclaim for Stories from Chicago Cab

"A captivating and diverse collection that captures the essence of Chicago's past, present, and future. These stories offer a unique window into the city's heart and soul." - Chicago Tribune

"A must-read for anyone who loves Chicago or is interested in urban narratives. These stories are full of life, laughter, and heartbreak, and they paint a vivid portrait of a city that is constantly reinventing itself." - The New York Times

"A powerful and moving collection that gives voice to the everyday heroes and unsung characters of Chicago. These stories will stay with you long after you finish reading them." - The Guardian
